

Leisure

Music

Features

East Coast Music Conference aims to tear down barriers

April 25, 2018 | SuNews

Rose Cora Perry & The Truth Untold will perform at the East Coast Music Conference on Saturday, May 12 at 5 p.m. on the outdoor Plot Stage at the Slover Library in downtown Norfolk.

The conference is a four-day annual event, offering diverse guest speakers, networking opportunities, games, educational panels, parties and live performances by up-and-coming independent bands.

Appealing equally to music fans and industry personnel alike, the East Coast Music Conference's aim is to tear down the barriers between industry and consumer along with celebrate the vibrancy of Norfolk's Granby, Ghent, Neon District, and Church Street areas.

All ages are invited to attend.

Show passes can be purchased for $59 through the event's official website: <https://eastcoastmusicconference.com>.

Use affiliate code "Perry18" to save 25 percent on admission fees.

Rose Cora Perry & The Truth Untold will perform at the East Coast Music Conference on May 12.

(Courtesy photo.)

Tags: Rose Cora Perry & The Truth Untold East Coast Music Conference Slover Library Granby Ghent Neon District Church Street